How to Get Images from Your iDevice to Your Computer Wirelessly

iCloud Email the Files

If you are taking screenshots of various pages and screens on your iPad, it's not completely intuitive when it comes to getting them off. There are a few ways that you can do that. You need to decide what is easiest for you.

Method 1 of 2: iCloud

1 Use the cloud. You can link your computer and your iPad pretty easily. If you have a PC and not another Apple product, you will need to download and install the iCloud Control Panel for Windows v2.0.

Fast installation. True redundancy. No loop charges. No taxes.

2 Go into the Settings on your iPad and make sure that the PhotoStream is set to On.

3 Take your screenshots. Since you have enabled the Photo Stream, they will go into there and then be uploaded onto your computer through the iCloud.

Method 2 of 2: Email the Files

1 If you don't want to use (or can't use) the above, then email them to yourself.

2 Navigate to your photo (or photos) that you want to mail.

3 Press on the box with the arrow on the iPad. This will bring out a list of options. Choose email and send it to yourself or whomever you want it to go to.

- This won't be very effective for more than a couple of images. However, you can also copy and paste the photos onto an email.
