Pam's Notes

Sorry so late...Back from Houston and just now getting the minutes out. I haven't heard from anyone so will just give quick update. Experimental drug doesn't seem to be effective, so I am waiting to see what the drs. think next. I know my charts are being presented to a team. More than likely I will now be another trial drug. If they decide radiation will be needed, I am in hopes I am able to get treatment in McAllen. Should know more next week. Again, I thank everyone for their prayers. Thankfully still no pain and without the drug, my taste of food has returned. Always a silver lining....one may have to look a little. Pam
