John O'Brien sent a message about the photos on the TOT web site. "Regarding the TOT photo website, Google has bought out Picassa and decided not to support Picassa Web or Picassa photos. They transferred all of the photos to Google Photos. So all of the TOT photos are out on the web, but I haven't found a way to make them available to a large audience. With Google photos you have to send a link for each album to everyone you want to share the album. Totally unworkable for the TOT photo Website. I am working on way to make some of the albums available to everyone without everyone having a bunch of links to each album."
