Pam's Notes

Good morning from central Illinois. I am back from my Fall foliage bus trip. The trip was very nice, except for Mother Nature. The days of the beautiful fall colors in New Hampshire were obscured by the drizzling rain and fog in the mountains. The trip itself was quite nice. We enjoyed a maple syrup factory, a pottery factory, J F Kennedy Library, Norman Rockwell home and museum, a Shaker Village, several New England mansions, and ended in the Big Apple, New York along with a Broadway play.

Then after a week's travel, I have returned to above temps for this time of the year. Of course sunshine and rain in central Illinois mean perfect conditions for the grass to continue to grow. This time of the the year it should be getting brittle and beginning to turn dormant. I came back to the old lawn mower.

I had a short note from the Toews:

Nettie and Ben Toews had a surprise visit from Rick Macalony. And John and Liz Sluis. We still feel with Rick for the loss of his wife Lynne. We had a great time. We hope to come back to the Tip some time to see you all. Special Hi to Terry & Sherry.

Also, Linda York wrote:

Just an update. Jim is doing really well. He was basically independent until the Manitoba Public Insurance pulled his license three weeks ago. He had been driving for the past 3-4 months so it was a surprise. Due to a backlog he can't go for an evaluation until January. We are still planning on going to TOT but I will be driving again. Yippee. We hope to be there the end of October and fly home for Christmas.

We had a short but fun visit with Ray and Joan in September. (Jim drove half the way - go figure.) Hi to all our friends that get your letter and are not coming back. See you soon.

It reads that both Barbara Horne and Vera Janis are still in the hospital. We wish them both a speedy recovery and hoping you keep them in your prayers. In a couple of weeks, I should be able to say ya'll again. I'm heading south after I finish up on some things. Safe driving if you're already on your way. Hoping to see all of you soon. Pam
